Where Canada Leads the World

Canada exports more wheat than any other country in the world. It produces most of the world's supply of nickel. Within the last two years it has passed the United States in the production of newsprint and is now the greatest exporter in the world. Isolated facts, such as these, are becoming common knowledge amongst Canadians, but it is doubtful if, as yet, they fully appreciate the gigantic strides made by the Dominion in gaining a position of first importance among the trading nations of the world.

The jubilee year of Confederation is a good time to take stock of our national achievements, not that we should become boastful as a people, but as an encouragement and an incentive to still greater things. It has been charged that Canadians suffer from an inferiority complex; that we are more inclined to belittle our country and its possibilities than to boast of them; that, as a consequence, we are apt to entertain doubts and be fearful of the future instead of displaying confidence and courage.

It is a good thing, therefore, to sometimes get a glimpse of ourselves as others see us. There is inspiration in such tributes as the following:

The National Foreign Trades Council of New York, in a recent statement, says Canada has led all nations in increase of external trade since 1912, with an increase of 85 per cent as compared with Australia's 45 per cent, and 21 per cent for the United States.

The League of Nations Bureau recently issued a report showing that Canada's per capita wealth had grown from $1,100 in 1902 to $2,100 in 1926—a record unequalled by any other nation in history.

The National Bureau of Research of the United States recently published the results of 17 years' trading, showing that Canada had enjoyed more prosperity than any other nation.

During the years covered by these statements, the Western Provinces of Canada have been transformed from being a vast area, with a sparse population and a meagre production, into a community of over two million people and with an agricultural production of such magnitude as to command the attention of the whole world, and constituting a factor to be reckoned with in all the world markets.

The development of the West has had its effect on the rest of Canada, as is well recognized, but Western people possibly do not fully appreciate the rapid growth and development which has taken place in the other provinces in the east. Manufacturing production in Canada has grown from 214 millions of dollars in 1901 to 1,311 millions in 1925, and in export of manufactured products expanded in the same time by 2,729 per cent. Today Canada exports some millions of dollars worth of manufactured goods more than she imports, a complete reversal of the situation as recently as five years ago.

Canadian manufacturers are beginning to profit from the lessons of the past. They realize that the people of Canada as a whole will not stand for protective tariffs so high that they are prohibitive, and that the tendency is in the direction of lower rather than higher tariffs. They now know they must rely on something more than a protective tariff to ensure success and make profits. As a result they have scrapped much obsolete machinery, have adopted improved manufacturing methods, have not only cultivated the home market better through the giving of real service, but they have aggressively entered foreign markets and have built up a worthwhile export trade. All their eyes are no longer in one basket.

They are beginning to appreciate the wisdom and strength of a Canadian policy of negotiating trade treaties with other countries, and to recognize and accept the fact that international trade cannot be all one-sided; that in a word, if Canada is to sell largely in foreign markets, she must, in turn, buy in those markets. Canada's manufacturers and merchants are also to an increasing extent investing in the development of the natural resources of the Dominion instead of relying on the importation of raw and semi-manufactured materials which the Dominion itself can supply.

It is because of a growing recognition and application of these truths that Canada is today leading the world in the growth and development of external trade.

More Hungarians Will Emigrate to Canada

New Settlers Are All Accustomed to Farm Work

From March of this year until October, the number of Hungarian immigrants to be settled in Western Canada by the Canadian Hungarian Colonization Board will number about 2,500, according to Dr. J. Ujvary, Winnipeg, president of the Board.

Hungary, like Canada, is an agricultural country, Dr. Ujvary explained, and the immigrants that are brought out here are all accustomed to farm work. "The farmers here, report to the Board the number of laborers they require and the order for that number is sent to Hungary," Dr. Ujvary said. Since the war, he explained, most of the Hungarians who came to this country were very poor and could not think of buying land at first. They were therefore placed on farms as laborers until they earned sufficient money to start out for themselves. Occasionally, the doctor said, a man came with some capital and wanted to start for himself.

For chest colds, pain in the side, stiff neck, carache and toothache, I have found Nerviline invaluable. Mrs. L. M. Brown, Watton, N.S., says: "I cannot recommend Baby's Own Tablets too highly. I have found them invaluable for the ailments of little ones." Mrs. Brown's testimony is the same as that of thousands of other mothers who have used the Tablets. To use them once is a sure guarantee that they will always be kept in the home as long as there are babies or young children to be cared for. The Tablets are a laxative—mild but thorough in action—which never fail to regulate the stomach and bowel, relieve constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers and make the dreaded teething period easy. Trade With Germany

Satisfactory progress, it is understood, is being made in the arrangements for a trade agreement between Canada and Germany. Two representatives of the German Government have been in Ottawa in consultation with the Dominion Government. Exports from Canada to Germany in the last calendar year were exceeded only by those to the United States, the United Kingdom and Japan.

"Should be in every home" Says Mme. Villemaire

Three years of stomach and kidney disorders wrecked her health. Now fully recovered and feeling splendid, she thanks Tanlac

Mme. Eliza Villemaire lives at 432 St. Patrick Street, Ottawa. She is ruddy and robust, showing no signs of the distressing ordeals she went through for three years. "No words can express what I suffered," she said recently. "At times I thought my back must break, and I could not even stoop over to set the table. My stomach was just as bad, for food would lie there like a lump of lead. I used to bloat terribly, and at times could hardly catch my breath. Nervousness kept me awake half the night. I tried many remedies and treatments but though I spent a small fortune on them, nothing seemed to help me."

"I only wish I had taken Tanlac when my trouble first started for it certainly would have saved me a lot of suffering. The way my troubles disappeared after taking it was almost magical. It built me up and made me a new woman. Now my kidneys never bother me, I am free from all pain and my digestion is splendid. If I had my way I'd put Tanlac in every home in Canada. That's how much I think about it."

Soundproof Room In London Ear Hospital

Silence Chamber Provides Ideal Conditions for Testing Deafness

In the basement of the new Royal Ear Hospital, London, which has been officially opened by Neville Chamberlain, Minister of Health, is a chamber which is unique in this country known as the "silence room." The walls, floor, and ceiling of this room are so constructed as to be impervious to external sounds, so that exact tests of degrees of deafness can be made in ideal conditions. It is claimed that the beat of the heart and the flick of the eyelids, when quickly closed and opened, can be heard. In declaring the new hospital open, Mr. Chamberlain said that a special form of treatment—namely, ionisation had been particularly valuable in ear diseases. Sixty or seventy per cent. of school children could be shown to be capable of being cured if they received ionisation treatment in good time.

Greater Precaution Needed

Toronto Records Show Pedestrians Responsible for Many Street Accidents

As a general rule the motorist is blamed when a pedestrian is struck by a car. The report of Toronto's Chief Constable for 1926 shows that of cases which came to the attention of the police the motorist was apparently at fault in 203 and the pedestrian in 598 instances. There were 129 cases where responsibility could not be determined. Obviously the necessity is for the exercise of greater care all around.

Canada Offers To Newcomers A Splendid Opportunity To Achieve a State of Independence

Canada's offer to the people of Europe, and in fact to potential new citizens in any part of the world, is an opportunity to achieve independence on her lands. The Dominion does not claim that success is to be won in her domain with any the less effort than elsewhere, but does maintain that the goal of absolute independence is within the reach of every individual stretching out sufficiently vigorously after it. Canada has always been known as a land of home owners, and just to what extent this is true and the Dominion fulfills her promise, is illustrated in statistical material which has been compiled by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

In contrast to nearly every other part of the world, followers of Canada's first industry of agriculture pursue their calling to a very large extent on farms of their own. The Dominion is signally free from the disabilities which follow in the wake of an agricultural population with a large proportion of renters. Of all the farms in Canada at the time of the 1921 census, numbering 711,090, 615,180 were owned outright by those who lived upon them. This represents 86.5 per cent. of the total farming population. The percentage of farm owners is high in each of the provinces, being as follows:—Prince Edward Island, 95.6 per cent.; Nova Scotia, 96.1 per cent.; New Brunswick, 96.1 per cent.; Quebec, 94.9 per cent.; Ontario, 85.2 per cent.; Manitoba, 82 per cent.; Saskatchewan, 77.6 per cent.; Alberta, 80.3 per cent.; British Columbia, 86.3 per cent. In comparison with the above figures the percentage of farms operated by owners in the United States was only 66.6 of the total in 1920, and the proportion shows a decline each decade.

It is not only upon farms that Canada's home owners are found, but 61.91 per cent. of all homes in the Dominion are owned by their inhabitants, and only 38.09 rented. Among rural dwellers the percentage of home owners is 78.50, and among urban dwellers, 46.06. The percentage of home owners is highest in Prince Edward Island, where it stands at 90.73 per cent., and lowest in Quebec, where it is 51.71 per cent. The percentages in the other provinces are as follows:—Saskatchewan, 75.01 per cent.; Alberta, 69.37 per cent.; Nova Scotia, 66.24 per cent.; New Brunswick, 65.26 per cent.; Manitoba, 64.77 per cent.; Ontario 63.25 per cent.; British Columbia, 54.14 per cent.

The substantial proportion of home owners among the farmers of Canada is to be expected in a consideration of the facility of land tenure in Canada today and the general encouragement given towards farm establishment. It would be yet considerably larger did it include the large number who are gradually paying for their holdings on terms extended over a number of years and who are virtually farm owners. But the figures of home owners among the urban population are also gratifying, indicating that so large a proportion has its roots so definitely sunk. The home owner, the family man with such a stake in the country, is one who is there to stay, not to waver with the vacillation of prosperity.

Birds Invaluable to Farmer

People Should Be Taught Not to Destroy Them

It is a good thing at this season of the year to remind young people not to destroy the insectivorous birds which render such countless and invaluable services to the farmer and the world at large. In many parts of the country insects have caused grievous damage for some years, both to the forests and the harvests. We should therefore, pay all the more attention to the preservation of the birds which aid in the destruction of the insects which attack our crops and growing timber.

Interested in Plowing Matches

University of Saskatchewan Will Supervise Many Tests This Year

The growing interest in the proper use of agricultural machinery in Saskatchewan is manifest in the large number of applications for plowing matches and demonstrations which has been received by the department of agricultural extension, University of Saskatchewan.

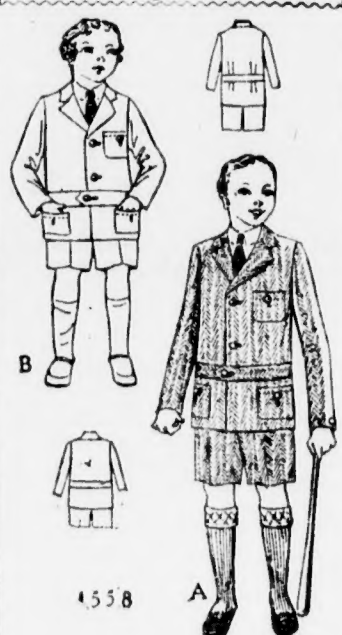

John G. Raynor, director of the department, estimates that approximately 30 matches or demonstrations will be held this year as compared to only ten matches during 1926. To date there are 19 applications on hand.

The demonstrations will be conducted by two members of the Agricultural Engineering Department of the University.

According to present arrangements the matches will all be held from June 10 to about June 25.

Where matches are held one-half of the prize money awarded is given by the government in the form of a grant. The limit set by the government is $50 for each match.

New Game Bird for Canada

"Cock of the Wood" Will Make Its Appearance If Ottawa Accepts Estonian's Offer

Canada may have a new game bird if an offer which George van der Bellen, representative of the Government of Estonia, who visited in Ottawa in the course of a Canadian tour, made to the Federal authorities is accepted. "Cock of the Wood" hunting may take its place along with duck and deer and partridge shooting as the great fall pastime of the many Canadians who at that season of the year feel inclined to go out and kill something.

Mr. Van der Bellen, in behalf of his Government offers to present a number of Russian "Cock of the Wood" to Canada with the idea that this bird will find Canadian climatic and other conditions to its liking, and increase and multiply here. The "cock of the wood" is the largest member of the grouse family in the world, weighing from seven to seventeen pounds when fully developed, and it would not take many specimens of this bird to make a full day's bag for any ordinary nimrod.

Mr. Van der Bellen is studying the problem of game conservation and is also investigating fur farming. This industry, he states, is developing rapidly in his country, and includes silver fox farming, the first animals for which were imported to Estonia from Canada.

Planning Big Muskrat Farm Near Winnipeg

Will be World's Largest if Enterprise is Launched

What will probably be the most extensive muskrat "farm" in the world will be established in Northern Manitoba. American interests with capital amounting to $100,000 have been "cruising" the country adjacent to Lake Winnipeg with the object of selecting suitable sites upon which options would be secured, the land leased or purchased and the enterprise launched. It has not yet been definitely established that the business will be gone on with, but if it is decided to go ahead production of many thousands of rat pelts per year would be probable. If a market could be found for the carcasses rat farming on a large scale would be less expensive. Rat meat is said to be as good as rabbit, and some profess to have a liking for it, but it is doubtful if consumption in this country will ever reach large proportions.

Unfortunately a man's epitaph comes along too late in the game for him to live up to it.

In this world of strife a man must either be an anvil or a hammer.

The British Way Of Dealing With International Questions An Example To Other Nations

Idea Has Been Tried Out

Experimenters Prove Music Played at Milking Time Increased Yield

The astonishing observation that music makes cows and goats give increased quantities of milk is reported by two German physiologists, Drs. Nebert and Koch, says Dr. E. E. Price's Week's Science (New York) as follows:

It is not necessary to keep the cows or other animals in a continual environment of the concert-room. All that the experimenters did was to arrange that music be played in the stable during the milking. The invariable result was that the animals being milked yielded more milk with music than without it. There is no record of the effect of different kinds of music; of whether jazz or classical opera possesses the highest milk-elicting properties. The observation was not entirely unexpected, for it has long been believed by scientific students of the way in which milk is produced by the milk-giving animals that nervous stimuli have pronounced effects on this process. Although cows are not commonly imagined to possess highly strung nervous systems, it is known that things tending to excite them may interfere seriously with the yield of milk. On the other hand, it is probable that surroundings which calm the nerves and prevent fear or excitement are favorable to milk production. Although Dr. Nebert and Dr. Koch promise no practical application of their discoveries to the dairy industry, it is probable that some enterprising farmer will try soon the effects of milking-time radio programs or of phonograph concerts on his milk-yielding stock.

B.C. Tale Deposits

Toronto Capital to Develop Discovery in the Banff District

Toronto capital will develop the only known blue tale deposits in Canada, the bed located about ten miles southwest of Banff. A private company, adequately financed, has been organized, and it is said that development operations will begin at once. White tale deposits are also found in association with the blue tale. Both are valuable, but blue the more so, being in demand for use in electrical machinery and equipment.

It takes an extemporaneous speaker to talk fluently about nothing.

An Eighteenth Century Governor

The collection of paintings now hanging in the City Hall, Toronto, has been enriched by the addition to it of the portrait by Mournier of General John Graves Simcoe, after whom the county of Simcoe, Ontario, was named, and who was the first Lieutenant-Governor of Upper Canada. His first capital was Newark (Niagara), and later York (Toronto). His government was notable for its efforts to open up the province by means of the building of roads and the encouragement of immigration and in many ways his policy was far-sighted.

The painting which was formally accepted by the Toronto Board of Control was offered by Sir Leicester Harmsworth, English baronet. It was brought over to the Dominion on Canadian Pacific steamship Montcalm.

When Great Britain, as at present in China, seems to be burdened with more than her share and to be the butt at which Chinese prejudice is directed by Bolshevik inspirers, with other nations shyly helping to centre attention on Britain, it requires some faith in the British star to see a way through. The United States has even exposed itself to the suspicion of seeking to stand in favourably with China by leaving the unpleasant initiatives to Britain. Shame, it is true, is bringing about modification of the attitude of other foreign powers having interests in China, with the result at last of some co-operation at Shanghai and other places where even the lives of foreigners have been menaced. It might not be too wild a conjecture to say that in the end Britain may stand highest of all nations with Chinese, who now indignantly and ignorantly objugate her, and that, ultimately, China may perceive that Britain is the worthiest of them all, much as the great Napoleon acknowledged on surrendering to Captain Maitland of H.M.S. Bellerophon, as representing Britain, "the most powerful, the most constant, and the most generous of my foes."

The visit of the Duke of York to the Antipodes curiously has evoked a handsome compliment to the British way of dealing with aboriginal races. Among the addresses to his Royal Highness was one from the Maoris, with whom the British settlers were at war as recently as 1871, when final pacification was brought about and the Maoris were admitted to a share in the government. Since then the Maoris have developed into first-class citizens, their race being represented in Parliament and in the New Zealand Government. Sir Mairi Pomare, a Maori Minister in the Government, took a prominent part in the honor paid to the royal visitors, and translated the address, which was read by Prime Minister Coates. The translation is a unique achievement, refreshing in phraseology when compared with the usual platitudinous compositions inflicted upon royalty or viceroyalty in more advanced countries. What could be more charming in its naive, characteristic eloquence than the Maori address thus translated?

"Thrice has Royalty deigned to honor our courtyard, to enter our humble house, and to walk among us. It's good. Thus is fulfilled the word we spoke to your Elder Brother that those who govern this far-flung Empire should walk and talk with people in all its covered parts and so understand and be understood of them. Come to them in the spirit of trust in which England appeals to the hearts of all races. Welcome, messenger of the era to be, when space and distance may be made of small account, and when words and works may encircle the globe as does the sun, so that no part of the Empire may brood in gloom and conspire evil. Welcome, second Duchess, bringing woman's peace. Woman's hands and tears soothed the wounds of a warring world. Now woman strives for the peace of God. Welcome, then, ye who embody the ever-recurring hopes of mankind for a State in which health, happiness, and prosperity shall prevail."

"The Empire which can inspire a tribute like that of the Maoris is a long way from decadent. Not only in Asia but wherever the sun shines, Great Britain and the British Empire will for ages still be a force, beneficent and powerful, to be reckoned with."—St. Thomas Times-Journal.

Keep to Old Habits

English sheep, probably from the greater richness of the pastures, feed very much together. Scotch sheep are obliged to extend and scatter themselves over their hills for the better discovery of food. Yet the English sheep, on being transferred to Scotland, keep their old habit of feeding in a mass, although so little adapted to the new surroundings. Their descendants will do the same, for it is said that the English sheep is not thoroughly naturalized into the necessities of a place till the third generation.

Tinting Tips

Here's the secret of giving lingerie, stockings, etc., the most gorgeous tints. All tints are really colors. So use real dyes. Get an envelope of the actual dye powder in any drug store, for fifteen cents. Do your own tinting, which saves money and gives you the exact shade you want.

Diamond dyes do perfectly beautiful tinting in cold water. A dip, and it's done. And true dyes don't streak! Dye-tinting doesn't look weak, however delicate a tone you use; nor does it wash out unevenly. When you want the tint to be permanent, just use boiling water instead of cold!

Regular dyeing of all dress materials, drapes, etc., just as easy. Ask druggist for color cards and suggestions. Or, a wealth of ideas in full colors, in new book Color Craft free and postpaid; write DIAMOND DYES, Dept. N30, Windsor, Ontario.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

APRIL 21

PETER AT THE TRANSFIGURATION

Golden Text: There came a voice out of the cloud. This is my beloved Son; hear ye Him.—Mark 9:7.

Lesson: Mark 9:2-10; 2 Peter 1:16-18.

Devotional Reading: Isaiah 61-8.

Explanations and Comments

1. Peter Witnesses the Transfiguration of Jesus, Mark 9:2-4. Six days after the events in the neighborhood of Caesarea Philippi, Jesus took with him his three favored disciples, Peter, James and John (the three who were with him in the death chamber of the daughter of Jairus, at the grave of Lazarus, and in the Garden of Gethsemane), and ascended a high mountain where he was transfigured before them. Had the disciples been perplexed and anxious during that week. Did that mysterious announcement of their Master's coming suffering and death seem to them so utterly impossible for Him whom they had declared the Christ that they were even faltering in their faith? On the Mount the answer came, and then they knew that, however the mystery was to be explained, their Master was the very Son of God. The Transfiguration with its revelation of glory and power dispelled all despondency.

Jesus was transfigured. The fashion of his countenance was altered, says Luke (Luke 9:29). His face did shine as the sun, says Matthew (Matt. 17:2). It was not a splendor that fell on his face from without, and lighted it up; the glory came from within. Even the face of Moses shone after he had been communing with God on the Mount, and after hours spent in prayer (Luke 9:29). Jesus would be exalted in spirit and a new light would shine from his face, his whole aspect would be changed. John G. Paton, in his autobiography, speaks of the wonder and awe with which he and his brother would notice the beautiful light on their father's face as he appeared after a time of seclusion when he had been talking with God.

"I take the Transfiguration to be a great lesson in prayer and I urge that more and more it should enter into our life. It is difficult, it will not be accomplished without a strenuous effort to shake ourselves free of the clinging material things, but it is worth far more than all the effort we can make. We are living as if there were no God, and often as if there were no God; and I believe that the constant habit would alter that. It would introduce us to a larger life. It would not change our circumstances, but it might change our spirit." Charles Brown.

Where Mixed Farming Pays

Jersey Cattle and Sugar Beets Make a Good Combination

Sugar beets and Jersey cattle is the combination that W. T. Passey, successful mixed farmer of Magrath, Alberta, looks upon as a better investment than oil stocks. On his 60 acre irrigated farm he has a half a dozen purchased Jersey cows, three of which are milking and putting $1.50 of milk and cream into the pail every day. This is the net price as it is called for by the customers.

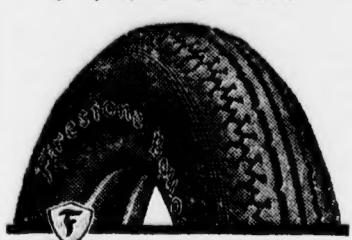

A half section of land in the Magrath district has been sold at $60 an acre—the highest price recorded in that area for years. The report from Magrath says that most of the land is in summer fallow, ready for cropping in the spring.

Scientifically Designed BALLOON TIRE TREAD

Another Reason why Firestone Tires are Better

WHEN Firestone engineers were developing the Balloon Tire they found it necessary to design a tread altogether different from that which is required by High Pressure Tires.

The projections of the cross-and-square tread are small and the rider strips narrow to permit the tread to cling to the road, giving the greatest non-skid surface. This tough, pliable tread has the wear-resisting qualities that give thousands of extra miles of service.

This flexible tread must be placed on a flexible carcass. To provide for the extra flexing strains Firestone dips the cords of the carcass in a rubber solution. By this process, every fiber of every cord is saturated and insulated with rubber, minimizing friction and wear.

ALBERTA COAL QUESTION IS UP FOR DISCUSSION

Ottawa. Confidence was expressed by Hon. Charles Stewart, Minister of Interior, during a debate in the House of Commons, that if the Board of Railway Commissioners found the cost of transporting Alberta coal to Ontario was not more than $7 a ton, this rate could be put into effect immediately, by Order in Council, without waiting for another session of Parliament.

The Minister agreed that to enable Alberta coal to successfully compete with American anthracite in the markets of Ontario, a $7 a ton rate was necessary, and intimated that if the board found the cost to be greater than that, the Government would be prepared to grant assistance in order to make the transportation of a million tons a year of Alberta lignite into Ontario economically feasible. The government would take the same view in this matter as it had in granting assistance to the Maritimes.

The question of unemployment in the coal industry in Alberta was brought up by E. J. Garland, C.F.A., Bow River.

Hon. Peter Hoeman, Minister of Labor, said he had received several telegrams with respect to the situation in Alberta. Immediately upon receipt of these communications, he had sent a man to the mining fields in that province to study conditions. Mr. Hoeman assured the House that so far as he was concerned he was doing everything possible.

U.S. Air Mail

May Permit Canadian Stamps to Be Used in Future

Washington, D.C. Prepayment in Canadian stamps of the special fee of 10 cents for the United States air mail service will be arranged for Canadians, if there is any demand for the service.

Discussing informally the extension of the U.S. air mail to Canadian mail matter, Postmaster General New stated here that he saw no reason why Canada could not be given some arrangement whereby Canadian stamps could be used for the extra 10 cents postage on matter to be transported by air. At present, while the ordinary postage of two cents can be prepaid in Canadian stamps, it is necessary to buy United States stamps to prepay the extra fee. It is understood that Canadian authorities have not asked for such an arrangement. No figure could be obtained here as to the number of letters being sent by people in Canada by the air mail route which now operates from coast to coast in the United States and is said to save from one to two days on ordinary postal routes.

South African Flag Question

Basis of Solution Believed to Have Been Found

Capetown, South Africa. — The Cape Town Government newspapers welcome the report of the conference between the government flag committee and representatives of South African independent flag committees, as the basis of a solution of the flag question.

The opposition press, however, generally views the reports unfavorably, and strongly recommends the withdrawal of the flag bill this session.

The conference adjourned until May 19, with independent representatives leaving to secure approval of the new design presented by the government a flag with the cross of St. George on a green background divided into quarters.

Japan May Send More Ships

Tokyo. Japan's huge fleet already in Chinese waters, is expected to be augmented soon by four more destroyers. Various vernacular newspapers are urging the government to assume a firmer attitude toward China, but the government is insisting on maintenance of its present attitude, although announcing that necessity may cause an alteration at any time.

Royal Competitors At Ottawa Show

Prince of Wales and Spanish Prince Are Sending Exhibits

Ottawa. Heirs to the thrones of Great Britain and Spain will vie with each other at the world's poultry congress being held here from July 27 to August 1 of this year. H.R.H. the Prince of Wales recently announced his intention of exhibiting some live birds from his farm in Cornwall, England, and word has been received that H.R.H. the Prince of the Asturias, heir to the Spanish throne, intended exhibiting some fowls from his own poultry farm. The birds from the Spanish Crown Prince's farm will be the feature of the Spanish national exhibit.

Ernest Rhodes, congress secretary, received word from Prof. Salvador Castello, in charge of the royal poultry school at Arenys de Mar, Spain, that the Spanish national educational exhibit was being forwarded on May 15, and that the live bird exhibit would be sent via China, leaving on July 11. An exhibition is being held in Madrid on June 29 at which will be chosen the birds to represent Spain, in addition to those from the royal farm.

The Spanish government, which has taken three spaces at the congress exhibition, with a total frontage of sixty feet to a depth of thirty feet, states that it is prepared to leave its exhibit in place for Central Canada exhibition. Twenty official delegates are coming from Spain.

Supplementary Estimates

Grants for Maritime Provinces as Recommended by Duncan Report

Ottawa. Supplementary estimates for 1927-28 were tabled in the House by Hon. J. A. Robt.

The total is $11,618,261.12, of which $638,823 is chargeable to capital account, the balance $11,009,538.12 being chargeable to Consolidated Revenue fund account.

Provision is made for grants to the Maritime provinces pending consideration of provincial subsidies. Nova Scotia, $875,000; New Brunswick, $600,000; Prince Edward Island, $125,000, a total of $1,600,000, as recommended by the Duncan report.

Flat increases for the civil service are provided in an item of $8,700,000.

An amount of $500,000 is included for the purchase of land, building equipment and furnishings for embassies, residence and offices for the Canadian legation at Washington, D.C.

A further grant of $50,000 is made towards expenditures in connection with the World Poultry congress to be held in Ottawa this summer.

There is $15,000 to provide for a trial shipment of Alberta domestic coal to be made by rail and lake under the supervision of the Dominion Fuel board, provided one-third of the total cost of the government is borne by other governmental, municipal and private organizations.

Start Anti-British Movement

Native Section of Shanghai May Declare Boycott

Shanghai. A definite anti-British movement which may take the shape of a boycott similar to those recently declared at Canton and Hong Kong, was launched in the native section of Shanghai.

A great anti-British league was organized at a meeting attended by representatives of the Kowloon (Cantonese political party), the women's association, the Teamworkers Union of the International Settlements, the Telegraph Operators Union, students of the Shanghai University and others.

Work Should Be Divided

Vancouver. That the building of vessels by the Canadian Government Merchant Marine for the new service to be inaugurated between Canada and the West Indies "should be divided proportionately between the Atlantic and Pacific shipyards" is the recommendation contained in a resolution passed by the Vancouver board of trade and forwarded to Sir Henry Thornton, president of the Government line.

WAGE INCREASE IS SOUGHT BY C.N.R. EMPLOYEES

Montreal. The board of negotiation, recently appointed to consider wage increases for more than 20,000 railway employees of the Canadian National Railways, convened here. The board is composed of W. J. Donagan, K.C., chairman, Winnipeg; Howard S. Ross, K.C., Montreal, representing the men, and Peter White, K.C., Toronto, acting for the railway.

Of the 20,000 men, 18,000 are employed in various classes of work, including office clerks, passenger station employees, stores and stationery workers, shippers and stationery enginers and firemen. They are seeking a $20 a month increase in pay for non-unionized men and 10 cent an hour for those working on hourly pay basis.

The remaining 2,000 employees are porter, sleeping and observation car service men. This class requested a 12 per cent increase and a uniform wage schedule. At present they are working on four different schedules, the result of various amalgamations effected by the National system in the past few years.

Provinces Not Included In Government Grant

Appropriation for Diamond Jubilee Celebration is for Ottawa Program Only

Edmonton. If Alberta puts in a diamond jubilee celebration of Confederation it will have to be at its own expense, according to an Ottawa ruling just received by the government. The appropriation by the Federal parliament is to be spent in Ottawa, for its own program. There being no intention to allocate any portion of the quarter million grant to the several provinces.

Miners Appeal For Relief

Ottawa. An appeal from the miners of Lethbridge that the Government take some action to relieve the situation there as a result of the mines being closed, was read in the House of Commons by Hon. Hugh Guthrie, Conservative leader. No action was taken on it.

Twenty Drown in Boat Accident

Tokio. More than 20 persons were drowned near Fusan, Korea, when an overloaded ferry boat capsized. There were 200 passengers on the boat. While a number were still missing, the authorities stated they believed the majority of the passengers were rescued.

Why Lambs Leave Home

Fifty-three mountain sheep left their native haunts at Banff recently, and were shipped by Canadian Pacific Express to their new home at Kamloops. The consignment, which was the result of a month's trapping operations carried on by the Royal Mounted Police wardens, was made at the request of the government of British Columbia, to restock localities where the numbers of mountain sheep are depleted.

Visitors to Banff who flock to the spot on the Banff-Windermere highway known as "Sheep Point" for the purpose of "snapping" Mr. and Mrs. Sheep will not notice that their band of woolly friends has lessened. As a matter of fact, the sheep have increased so rapidly, that the authori-

Bank Messenger Robbed

With Police Close By Bandits Escape With $13,000 in Cash

Niagara Falls, N.Y. — Two armed bandits held up and robbed Francis McMahon, messenger for the Canadian National Bank, in the main post office and escaped with about $13,000 in cash.

McMahon had just stepped from an armored bank car under police guard and entered the building when the men covered him with guns at the door of Postmaster Frederick G. Newell's office, took the bag of money he carried and sped away in an automobile bearing an Ontario license.

When he jumped out of the armored car McMahon ran into the post office. Patrolman Angus McIntyre, one of the three policemen guarding the armored car, left the machine and followed the bank messenger into the building. McMahon collided with him at the door as he was running out to give the alarm.

McIntyre ran across to the door through which the bandits fled and fired two shots as the machine sped away from the curb. Neither hit the bandit car, it is believed.

Protest From Alberta

Claim Immigrants Unfit for Farm Work Become Public Charge

Edmonton. A protest against the dumping of Swiss and other European immigrants in Alberta cities and towns has been made by the Provincial Government. Acting Premier George Hoadley has wired Robert Folke, minister of immigration, calling his attention to the fact that men are being brought here ostensibly as farm workers, who are actually in the unskilled labor class and unfit for work on the farm.

With no provision made for them on their arrival here and with a scarcity of the sort of work they are able to do they are in most cases thrown upon the public for support and it is this phase of the situation that the Government is protesting.

Canadian Takes Caruso's Place

New York. Edward Johnson, of Guelph, Ont., is in Caruso's shoes, literally and figuratively. Already hailed by John MacGinnack as the greatest tenor of the day, Mr. Johnson appeared as "Radames" in "Aida" at the Metropolitan opera house wearing Caruso's costume, a gift from the widow as a tribute to the art of her husband's successor.

Made Honorary Life Member

Vancouver. — Viscount Willingdon, governor-general, was made an honorary life member of the British Columbia Institute of Journalists when he and Lady Willingdon were entertained by members of the institute.

NEW PROBLEMS ARE NOW FACING THE CANTONESE

Shanghai. Serious reverses in the Yangtze battles and outbreaks of fierce factional fighting at Shanghai and elsewhere between moderates and radicals are problems now facing the Cantonese, who only a few weeks ago were hammering northward in a definite threat of taking over of the Northern government.

The factional controversy between the military and moderate wing of the Cantonese regime and the civil and radical wing, which has its seat at Hankow, resulting for many weeks, flared into active conflict when plain clothes men, acting under direction of General Chiang Kai Shek, Cantonese generalissimo and leader of the moderates, raided the headquarters of the Cantonese red labor unions in Shanghai, Hangchow, Nanking and Amoy.

Fighting resulted and in Shanghai 12 persons were killed and many wounded in the actions. The raiders, armed with machine guns, pistols and bombs, attacked every known union centre, in one case bringing up field guns to overwhelm 150 laborers. In one building about 400 laborers were arrested.

Similar raids were carried on in Hangchow, Nanking and Amoy, although there was comparatively little fighting in the latter places.

Problems Of Smuggling

U.S. Prison Made Goods Finding Then Way Into Canada

Toronto. R. P. Sparks, chairman of the Commercial Protective association, gave further evidence before the royal customs commission, here. He dealt first with the importation of prison-made goods into Canada. This created a most "offensive competition," but no adequate system of prevention had been established. Last year said Mr. Sparks, $60,000,000 worth of prison-made goods had been produced in the penal institutions of the United States. As the labor organizations and other interests objected to the sale of these goods in the United States open market, a proportion of them found their way into Canada. This had been proven thoroughly at Rock Island, Quebec, said Mr. Sparks.

"What the preventive service needs is brains, and not brawn," declared Mr. Sparks, this morning. Ten expert men, he believed, would do more to solve the problems of smuggling than an army of untrained officers.

The efforts of his organization were not directed against petty smuggling, he said.

"But the man who, under cover of darkness brings in a truckload of silk is a criminal," he declared. True, the petty smuggler broke the law, but his offence might be regarded in the nature of a moral lapse, while that of the big commercial smuggler was a deliberate crime. The real deterrent was a jail sentence, not a fine, he said.

"What you recommend is right, swift, impartial enforcement of the law," interpreted Chief Commissioner Brown.

"Yes," said Mr. Sparks.

Never find fault with your local newspaper because it fails to give every scrap of news as long as you take no pains to give the editor information. The average editor is not a medium or a mind reader, but we get the news the same way as we get our water—by pumping. This is true especially of that class of items as "locals." Rightfully they are not puffery, but simply personal mention for the information of local readers and those having friends visiting them should always let the editor know it, and he will always be glad to give it the proper notice. So if you have a bit of news worth printing let us know about it.

Now is the time for you to paint and fix up, and make home look as if there was a little enterprise around you. Take the garden rake and collect all the rubbish of 1909 in a pile and set fire to it—don't burn the house down in the operation—and let it be burned up and never to collect there again. There is no place like home, therefore make it beautiful, delightful, enchanting and your attainments for it will be the stronger.

APPLE SAUCE

Social Worker: Do you believe in transmigration of souls?

Fisherman: Well, no ma'am; I likes 'em fried in the ordinary way.

"Little boy, you ought to be ashamed of yourself, picking up ends of tobacco out of the street." "Say, lady, I'm just learning to chew and I guess they're good enough to learn on."

Adoring Girl: How in the world did you ever get so big and strong?

Halfback: Well, you see, my mother insisted that I go to public school and wear curls till I was fourteen.

Precious: where did you get those big eyes?
Precocious: My folks gave them to me for a birthday present.

She: I read that Dickens sometimes worked two weeks on one line.

He: That's nothing. My uncle worked twenty years on one sentence.

College John: All I want is a drink and a few kind words.

Obliging Bootlegger: Well here's your drink and the kind words are: "Don't drink it."

Jones: My wife explored my pockets last night.
Smith: What did she get?

Jones: The same as any other explorer—material for a lecture.

When my wife wants me to do something for her she always gives me one of my favorite dishes, brains for example.

Ah, I see. She attacks you on your weak spot.

Please Miss, didn't you say you'd give me a kiss if I could get some green stuff for your rabbit?

Yes, sonny I did.

Well here's the green stuff and I've sold the reward to the young man you play tennis with. He gave me half a dollar for it.

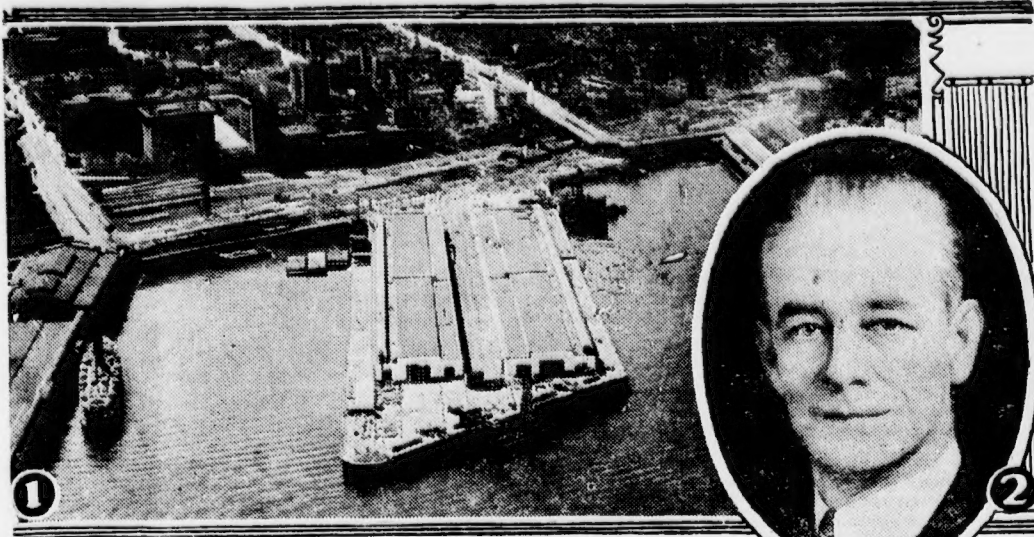

A great future for tobacco growing in Western Ontario is predicted by the Hon. J. S. Martin, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, who states that counties engaged in this industry have demonstrated that they can grow as fine tobacco leaf as Kentucky or Virginia. A number of experts have been engaged, he announced, to visit new growers and give them all information possible.

Supervising 200 Norwegian settlers, including wives and children, from the districts of Nottodden, Heddal and Valdres sections of Norway, Eric Platebo, chief clerk in the Canadian Pacific Railway offices at Bergen, saw the settlers off for Winnipeg from the Windsor Station, Montreal, fifty of the party are going straight to relatives. Mr. Platebo estimates that some 600 persons from the districts named will eventually come to Western Canada.

Via Canadian Pacific Railway recently there was forwarded to His Holiness the Pope an album of photographs of the Canadian Rockies offered by E. W. Beatty, Chairman and President of the system, following the suggestion made by a prominent Canadian citizen who had described the Canadian Rockies to His Holiness in an interview some time ago. A wish for a book showing views of the mountains was expressed by the Pope whose wish was conveyed to Mr. Beatty. The album is beautifully bound in white kid.

Canadian ilmenite ore will soon be used in the manufacture of a new pigment called "Titanium White" (to be used in the same way as white lead) according to H. The appointment of J. J. Forster, which has recently been announced, to the position of Steamship General Passenger Agent at Vancouver marks another step in the wonderful growth of the Canadian Pacific service on the Pacific Ocean.

Mr. Forster's advancement from the time he joined the Pacific Ocean

From the year 1919 to 1925 there was an increase of $1,303,772,886 in the total taxable value of realty in Canada, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The value in the latter year was $7,331,785,535.

The maple syrup production of the Province of Quebec will be in the neighborhood of 20,000,000 gallons, it has been officially estimated, this being an average output. The season has been much more advanced than in former years.

The pulp newsprint mill of the New Brunswick International Paper Co., Ltd., will be erected in Dalhousie, it is understood, as it is said that satisfactory arrangements resulted at the conference between representatives of the company and the town council.

A school will be established at the Vancouver Shops of the Canadian Pacific Railway for the purpose of instructing the apprentices in mathematics and drawing, it was announced recently by A. Sturrock, assistant superintendent of motive power, western lines.

"Merry Sunshine," an eight year red poll cow, bred and owned by Gowan Brothers, of Kamloops, has recently completed a 365-day R.O.P. test and established a new Canadian record with 13,517 pounds of milk. This record was made under ordinary farm conditions on a ranch nearly 4,000 feet above sea level, the cow staying out of doors day and night.

service in 1913, has been coincident with the growth of the Port of Vancouver. Up until that time the Company's shipping business had come directly under the Railways department, but with Mr. Forster's appointment as General Agent at Vancouver, at the time when the Empress of Russia and the Empress of Asia were added to the Pacific fleet, a new department was formed, the Canadian Pacific Ocean Steamships.

More recently the Empress of Canada and the Empress of Australia began to run on the Pacific to meet the increasing traffic. A further indication of the tremendous growth of the port was the opening this fall of a new pier that has now put Vancouver on the level with the greatest ports of the world.

"Don't spend your wits in skinning," she challenged him. "What is it?"

He ignored her challenge for a moment while he lighted a cigarette, first offering her his platinum case. When he had evened his light to his satisfaction he went to the fireplace and dropped the burnt match into it. For another moment he puffed calmly. Then turned to face the girl, who leaned back against the table in the corner of the room.

"Would you mind," he asked, softly, deliberately, "telling me what is your general impression of me? Not an analysis of my character, please, but an expression of the quality of you regard for me?"

She replied without hesitation, "I have always distrusted you, but I have never been convinced that I was justified. If I hadn't feared you, I'd have liked you. As it is, I am afraid I despise you, at times, because I know you are dishonest—dishonest with me, and with Yvonne who loves you. Is that the answer you want?"

"Not exactly, but it will serve. Suppose I should ask you to become my wife?"

"You used to tell me that you might do that, some day. I've always had an answer ready. I'd never marry you because I could never love you. If I could love you I wouldn't marry you because, by all the laws of decency, you belong to Yvonne whom you allowed to love you before you decided to laugh at her for her pretension that she would be worthy of you."

He examined his cigarette flame, and then drew in his smoke.

"That establishes our position to ward each other," he observed, and was silent for another interval. "But the situation is that you are going to marry me, never the less, because you will have to."

She swayed. Her slender white hand went to her throat again. She knew he was not talking idly. She had gone through one sort of battle with Kenilworth; now, she sensed, she was at the beginning of another, and, in some unsuspected way, a more desperate one. She waited for him to go on.

He threw the cigarette into the fireplace and faced her across the table.

"Be pleased to understand the import of what I am about to say," he breathed. "You have wondered where your money came from; you have wondered why it was given to you. I am about to solve for you, at least, a portion of your mysteries."

"I control the source of your money, I guard its secret and its reason and its purpose. I am the one to whom you have made your accounting, the accounting you haven't known you were making in every whim, in every choice of the paths you have elected to follow."

"Your accounting has been fully made. It is totalled up—by me I give made. It is totalled up—by me, I give you now, the results. I demand that you marry me."

"I do not say that I love you, for I do not."

"I do not say, even that I respect you, for I despise you, as you have professed to despise me. I shudder before all that you stand for; the abominable pretences of you, the sham of you, the deceit and cheapness of you."

"Yet I am saying to you that I want you to be my wife."

Joanna had stood as if transfixed. Her eyes widened. The brown deepened to black. The scarlet of her lips became ashen. Her hands were hot with the seething riot of her blood. Through her brain rang the one phrase: "I am the one!" And in its wake all those other sentences, sharp and bitter, that emerged from his lips like the crashing of cannon on a battlefield, pierced her with the precision of a deadly fusillade. She collapsed into a chair and threw her hands before her eyes as if to shut out a vision.

But Brandon, moving over to her, went on cruelly, relentlessly:

"Of your enormous gift of money you have made a farce. You have used it to enhance—not the world, not society, but the lure, the sense appeal, the woman of you. You have created nothing with your gift, but love; the kind of love that thrills but is nothing of nobility. You have shown what the kind of girl you represent shall surely become if given rein."

"But the farce is over, as I said down stairs. The mystery of your money is dispelled, or you may count it as being dispelled. The other mystery, which must exist for a little while, is that despite the frailty of you, I want you to marry me."

"And if you do not, there will be no more money. All that you have will be taken from you—even tonight! Whatever is yours now gained by fraud must be surrendered. You will be Mrs. Twenty-seven of the silks again, if your old job is still open to you!"

"Are you, by any chance, still of the mind not to be my wife?" The crumpled figure in the chair straightened a little. It tried to rise but sank down again. Its hands fluttered a bit. The girl looked up, at last.

"But I couldn't marry you! It could never be. I don't love you, I said. You wouldn't want me—without! You are playing with me."

"Not playing; very earnest, and final, and definite," he assured her.

"As I said, that is the new mystery for you to be baffled by. As my wife you shall keep your money; more money will be given you perhaps, and you shall, of course, share mine."

Now she gathered strength to stand. She made a little move as if to go up to him, but faltered. Her lips moved as if she were praying for words—words that would save her money, save her dreams, save beauty and luxury and pearls and diamonds and priceless furs—save them and, at the same time, save herself. But whatever her prayers, she heard no echoes of an answer. She turned to go on the door. Brandon, the torturing smile playing, now, about his lips, watched her silently, coolly, unmoved.

At the door she hesitated, stood for a minute leaning against the casement looking down into the ribald scene on the dance floor that blurred into a whirling black pool with monsters swimming on the surface.

Suddenly the little body stiffened. A bit of the brown came back into the eyes. Something of the scarlet returned to the quivering lips. She swung around slowly and walked firmly back into the room until she stood so close to Brandon that her body was almost against his.

"I want to keep my money, Francis," she said, her voice quivering but soft and ineffably pleading. "I couldn't do without it now. But I am very much in love with someone else. Very much in love, Francis. And it's the kind of love you would never understand. I don't understand myself. Nor does he—the man, I mean, that I'm in love with. You'll be kind to me, won't you? You'll tell me why the money was given me? You'll tell me what I've done that's wrong, so that I shall not do it again? I'll be anything you say, if I may have my money, the money that has made life so beautiful with money and my love."

"Anything I say?"

Before his sudden thrusting back at her those pleading words, she shrank as if he had struck her. Dazed again she heard him saying: "You may have your love, my dear girl. I would not interfere with that. It's your I want, for reasons and purposes of my own; not your love. I know the one you mean; I know the man to whom you've given the love that neither you nor he understands. Give it. Let him have it. Take his in return if you can win it. All of that shall be the bargain—a bargain of today!"

"The morals of today, you know, and the conventions, are not what they were in the yesterday. You are not the girl of yesterday, nor your kind of love the sacrament that it used to be."

"I am asking you to be my wife—only. To give me yourself only. You may give your love where you want it to be received and take whatever pleasure you in exchange. Surely you, who have played the game of lure, will not shrink before the flame you very essence kindles?"

Deep colors came and went across her face. She closed her eyes, and then opened them slowly, to quickly shut them.

Loneliness of the Great

Cares of Responsible Position Crowd Out Intimate Associations

Premier Baldwin of Great Britain has joined the silent band of lonely men, announcing in a recent speech that with the passing of years he feels extremely lonely. Disraeli, Gladstone, Lincoln, Napoleon, Cromwell and Carlyle all voiced this sentiment. Milton was a lonely figure while writing his greatest works. These modern dictators, Mussolini and de Rivera, are pitiful in their loneliness, for the cares of state have crowded out of their lives cherished associations. — Kingston Whig Standard.

The Oil of Power.—It is not claimed for Dr. Thomas' Electric Oil that it will remedy every ill, but its uses are so various that it may be looked upon as a general pain killer. It has achieved that greatness for itself and its excellence is known to all who have tested its virtues and learned by experience.

Because a prosperous haberdasher at Chesham, England, prayed behind the counter, and in 1651 sold his shop, distributing the money among the poor, he was known as the "Mad Hatter." Hence the phrase, "Mad as a hatter."

Troubles Concerning Canada Small Compared to Those of Other Nations

Everywhere save in Canada there seems to be unrest and uncertainty. Such troubles as those which concern the Canadian people are indeed as nothing in comparison with those which afflict the older and more congested countries of the world. We have our little domestic squabbles and our little sectional grievances, but they do not amount to much. It is many, many years since any great disaster has overtaken Canada. We have no violence to fear, and all the minor earth shocks, that we feel have their origin thousands of miles away. We are at peace with our neighbors and with the world. We have all of the territory that we want and would not know what to do with any more that we might acquire. We live in no fear of aggression and we do not require the services of a large standing army to maintain our frontiers.

Asthma Cannot Last when the greatest of all asthma specifics is used. Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Asthma Remedy assuredly deserves this exalted title. It has to its credit thousands of cases which other preparations had failed to benefit. It brings help to even the most severe cases and brings the patient to a condition of blessed relief. Surely suffering from asthma is needless when a remedy like this is so easily secured.

Little Helps For This Week

If we confess our sins, He is faithful and just to forgive us our sins, and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness. — 1 John 1, 9.

What better can we do than prostrate fall Before Him reverent, and there confess Humbly our faults, and pardon beg With tears Wat'ring the ground? — John Milton.

Every man has two angels, one on his right shoulder, and one on his left. When he does good, the angel on his right shoulder writes it down and seals it, because what is once well done is done forever. When he does evil, the angel on his left shoulder writes it down, but does not seal it. He waits until midnight. If, before that time, the man bows his head and says, "Gracious Allah! I have sinned; forgive me!" the angel rubs it out; but if not, then at midnight he seals the record, and the angel upon the right shoulder weeps. — Perstan.

Moved Half Mile in Ten Years

Largest Fresh Water Lake in South Wales Creeping Northward

The Phantom Pool of Kenzie is on the move again after a rest. The pool, the largest fresh water lake in South Wales, has moved nearly half a mile in the last ten years, and is creeping northward toward Kenzie Hill. It has been calculated that it will take less than forty years for the water to reach the nearest village in its line of advance. Some farmers are worried about their property. The superstitious are alarmed, but scientists say the lay of the land is the cause.
